The language of entrepreneurs is the language of play. They're not out there solving problems; they're out there playing - and it's during this process that they're coming up with disruptive technologies and life-changing products.

This is Moonshot

- Moonshot is a physical serious game that allows teams to playfully develop new ideas for entrepreneurial challenges.
- Moonshot is based on a framework of 30 adapted creativity techniques and motivating game mechanics.
- Through recombination, timeboxing, creative constraints and productive irritation, Moonshot makes it possible to experience how play and innovation are connected & what can be learned through this.
- These insights can be fed back into the organisation to develop measures for a more effective innovation culture.
